

The Untold True Story Of The Unlikely Friendship That Helped Win The American Revolution

The American Revolution was a long and bloody conflict, but it was also a time of great hope and idealism. One of the most important and unlikely friendships of the Revolution was between George Washington and the Marquis de Lafayette.

Lafayette was a young French aristocrat who came to America in 1777 to fight for the colonists' independence. He was just 19 years old, but he had already served in the French army and was eager to prove himself in battle. Washington was a veteran of the French and Indian War and was hesitant to accept Lafayette's help at first. However, the two men quickly formed a strong bond, and Lafayette became one of Washington's most trusted generals.
